

The Refill and Save program

Better adherence can help lead to better health

The Refill and SaveSM program helps members adhere to their prescription medication regimen, which can help them get and stay healthier. The first of its kind, this unique program gives members a financial incentive to take their medication as prescribed.

How the program works

Members who refill their prescription for a qualifying medication save $20 on their usual copayment or coinsurance. Members who refill their prescriptions through Optum Rx[®] home delivery will get a $50 reduction on their copayment based on a 90-day supply. They don't have to sign up or complete a rebate form – they just refill and save.

To qualify for the savings, members must refill their prescription within 30 days of the day it was scheduled to run out. So if the prescription is written for 30 days, the member has an additional 30-day grace period (for a total of 60 days) to refill the prescription.

A member who refills once per month could save $240 per year

Frequently asked questions

When do members need to refill their prescription at a retail pharmacy to be eligible for the $20 savings?

To qualify for the $20 discount, members must refill their prescription within 30 days of the day the medication or approved alternative runs out. If their prescription was written for 30 days, they have an additional 30-day grace period (for a total of 60 days) to refill the prescription.

If the grace period ends out before their prescription is refilled at retail, does a member still qualify for the $20 savings?

Members are eligible for future savings if they fill within the defined window. But they will not be eligible for the $20 savings at a retail pharmacy if they do not fill within that time frame.

How does the discount work if a member refills their prescriptions by mail?

Members can save $50 when they refill their 90-day prescription by mail. Because the 30-day grace period is included, this option extends the refill deadline to approximately 120 days from the last refill.

When do members' savings start?

For those with deductible plans, the Refill and Save incentive will apply once the deductible is met. It starts immediately for those that do not have a deductible plan.
