Savage named to 2027 Ohio Basketball Hall of Fame class

MAUMEE, Ohio – Kelly Savage, financial advisor, has been named one of 16 inductees who will make up the Ohio Basketball Hall of Fame class of 2027. She is a board member, partner, accredited investment fiduciary, and investment advisor representative for Savage and Associates.

Savage set 30 school records in women's basketball at the University of Toledo (UT) from 1986-90, and still ranks among several all-time categories, including scoring, assists, free throws, minutes, and remains the all-time leader in three-point field goals. She helped transform a struggling program into back-to-back WNIT finalists. She is also a Hall of Fame member of the UT, Notre Dame Academy (Toledo, Ohio), and Toledo City League.

"I am truly blessed to be a part of this prestigious class, and the esteemed Ohio Basketball Hall of Fame," stated Savage. "My love for the game was profound, and many life lessons came from so many ups and downs, and wins and losses. But this particular accolade is humbling, because it comes knowing full well that many people share this with me. This induction happened because of my amazing family, friends, coaches, teammates, and of course, all Toledo Rockets fans. This entire group is being inducted ... not just me."

The Ohio Basketball Hall of Fame has more than 330 inductees comprised of standout players, coaches, teams, and contributors. Their achievements have shaped the game at every level across the state, including Oscar Robertson, Nate Thurmond, John Havlicek, Bob Knight, Brad Daugherty, Jimmy Jackson, Ron Harper, Dennis Hopson, Mark Price, Lenny Wilkens, Wayne Embry, Bob Huggins, Bob Nichols, and countless others.

The 16 honorees will be formally enshrined at the Hall's 20th Annual Induction Ceremony, May 1, 2027, at the Clark State Performing Arts Center in Springfield, Ohio.
